By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 9.—Senate leaders decided today to accept the compromise resolution passed by the house for a congressional investigation of tax evasion and avoidance.

The decision was made so as to speed start of the inquiry next week. After conferring with other leaders, and treasury officials, Chairman Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, of the senate finance committee, said he would move tomorrow that the senate concur in the amendments added by the house to the senate resolution proposing the investigation.

The house amendments restricted publicity to be given the inquiry. The senate had voted for almost unrestricted authority to publish income tax returns.

The Mississippiian indicated that if appointed to the special joint committee of 12, he would propose that Chairman Doughton, Democrat of North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee be selected to head the investigation.

"I feel the house should have the chairmanship because the house, under the Constitution, begins all revenue legislation," Harrison said.

Harrison said he did not think the house had made any "real changes" in the senate's resolution authorizing the inquiry, but (Continued on Page Eight)

Fiance Finds Her Slumped on Doorstep Near His Home in London.

By The Associated Press.
LONDON, June 9.—Scotland Yard sought today to learn Diana Batty's own story of her strange eight-day disappearance that ended in sobbing collapse on a London doorstep.

Her Oxford undergraduate fiance, Michael Asquith, found the wealthy 21-year-old society girl early today, slumped next to his home.

She was not able to give an account of what had happened to her, said a friend of the family in relating that "Didi," as her intimates knew "England's most photographed beauty," seemed on the verge of a nervous collapse. She was placed under doctors' care.

Diana's mother, Mrs. Leonard Haskett, well-known actress, said: "The main thing is my daughter is safe. She is naturally very distressed and the doctors say she is suffering from a severe nervous breakdown."

Young Asquith, grandson of Britain's famous premier, the late Lord of Oxford and Asquith, had disclosed to police that he had received a letter containing a threat to "remove Diana unless he took better care of her."

Ohio State League Ball
Team Moving To Marion

Transfer of Sandusky Franchise Announced, Effective June 22; City's First League Nine in 20 Years To Play at Lincoln Park.

Negotiations which will give Marion its first organized league baseball club in more than 20 years were virtually complete today with the announcement that the Sandusky team of the Ohio State League has agreed to its franchise transferred here and that the team will be ready for its first game in Marion on June 22.

The announcement of the transfer came from R. R. Thompson, Toledo paying contractor, who is sole owner of the Sandusky team following conferences here during the past week with city park board officials and other civic organizations. Home games in the city will be played at the Lincoln park diamond, where a new concrete WPA stadium costing $20,000 is nearing completion.

Conclusion of the efforts to actually bring the team here are expected to be made within the next few days when Thompson comes to Marion for a meeting with the city park board. Already the management of the team and the park board have come to agreements on the use of the Lincoln park field and the actual contract signing is anticipated tomorrow at Friday.

Plan Booster Day. From other sources support is being offered in backing the team's transfer to Marion. Members of the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce will conduct a "Booster Day" ticket sale in an effort to net $2,000 to assure the team's return to Marion next season, Dave Morgan, president, said today. The tickets are expected to go on sale late this week, following a meeting of Junior Chamber members Friday night.

Permission to use the Lincoln park facilities for baseball was granted to the Sandusky club for the remainder of the present playing season and for 1938, members of the city park board said today in outlining terms of the contract with the team. The club management will be responsible for keeping the field in playing condition and will construct a wooden fence to enclose the field.

At present the new stadium is approximately three-fourths completed and WPA officials expressed the hope that it would be ready in its entirety by July 20. For the present time the portion of the structure which has been erected will be used. Members of the park board who conducted negotiations with the representatives of the team are W. P. Cass, president, Attorney Carter M. Patton, secretary and J. W. Harrison.

Class D League. The Ohio State League composed of Class D baseball clubs, each season plays 100 games, 70 at the home field and 30 on foreign diamonds. Up to today the Sandusky club has played 17 games and until its defeat at Mansfield yesterday, was in first place. The Sandusky team now trails the leaders by a one-half game margin. The Sandusky club, because it is entirely in the hands of Thompson has no direct contact with teams in the big leagues.

Through this program the Sandusky management can release, sell or buy players without the supervision of a sponsoring big league team. Other members of the Ohio State League are:

The 38-year-old senator, one of two "freshman" Republicans in the chamber, replied in a telegram: "While I feel that the committee will confine its investigation to specific violations of postal laws and regulations, my personal feeling is that any repeated violation of federal laws might well be subject to senatorial investigation."

of Jean Harlow

Only Relatives and Very Close Friends Admitted by Card to Services.

By The Associated Press.
GLENDALE, Calif., June 9.—The famous and obscure of movieland said last goodbye today over a bronze and silver casket to a friend of their all-dead Harlow, the glamorous girl of many contradictions.

Through the misty dawn the bronze coffin inlaid with silver, holding the actress' body, was brought the 10 miles from Los Angeles to the Memorial park here, escorted by police motor-cycles.

At 9 o'clock, a thousand persons gathered in hushed silence outside the high iron fence of Forest Lawn, a thousand yards from the gate.

In the wee kirk of the Heather chapel the coffin rested in breath-taking banks of flowers.

It was flanked with 1,500 lilies of the valley, and 300 gardenias, which the mother, Mrs. William H. Harlow, and Miss Harlow's sweetheart, William Powell, provided.

A silver plate on the casket bore an engraving of the signature of the 26-year-old glamour girl of tin-tin, cut down at the very height of her career by uremic poisoning.

One of the first to speak in the little chapel of farewell was Walter Baxter. Soon after him, Mr. Carole Lombard, then Clark Gable, leading man in her unfinished picture.

Next was Nelson Eddy, whose tribute in the simple service was the singing of "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." With Eddy was his companion Jeanette MacDonald, in and out of her life saying her farewell in Jean Harlow's favorite song, "Indian Love Call."

There were Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Billie Burke, Virginia Bruce, Joan Crawford, Ronald Colman, Ed Gribbon, Myrna Loy, Una Merkel, Haymon Navarro, Chester Morris, Maureen O'Sullivan, Max Baer, Charles Rogers, Ronald Young, Spencer Tracy, Joan Bennett, Kay Francis, Robert Benchley, Claude Rains, Ellena Landi, Lina May Oliver, Lewis Stone, and others.

POWER STRIKE
GRIPS 300,000

Current in Michigan's Saginaw Valley Kept Shut Off Despite Reported Accord.

By The Associated Press.
FLINT, Mich., June 9.—More than 300,000 residents of the Saginaw valley affected by a strike of Consumers Power Co. employees remained without electric service today despite announcement by John L. Lewis in Washington that a settlement had been reached.

The strikers indicated service would not be fully restored until their negotiations committee returns from Washington to report the terms of settlement. That will not be until late afternoon.

There was only a partial restoration of service in Flint, where switches were thrown at 2:27 a. m., darkening the city and signaling the start of the second power strike in three weeks.

Flint City, Midland and numerous smaller communities in the 13 counties of the Saginaw valley still were without service. An estimated 60,000 workers were idle.

Saginaw's 85,000 residents were only slightly affected, apparently because of the intervention of Walter H. Haxton, organizer for the United Automobile Workers, General Motors Corp. plants there were operating.

A survey of the Saginaw valley indicated that practically the entire Bay City and Flint divisions of the Consumers Power Co. were without service.

In the Bay City division are 91 communities and 111,850 residents. The Flint division serves 70 communities having an aggregate population of 232,000.

The Saginaw division supplies 28 communities and a population of 114,777. Some of the smaller communities in that division were without power.

The jury considered by the jury whether Miss Burke was negligent in the presence of Orr and whether she exercised the degree of care which she should have exercised.

CENTER OF STORM

Despite the fact that petitions were being circulated demanding his ouster because of alleged anti-union tactics, Sheriff Ralph Elmer of Mahoning county (above) proceeded to hire 50 more deputies and equip them with armored trucks for patrolling the strike front in the steel sector at Youngstown, O.

of the property on which the accident occurred, and Tracy Burke, brother of the defendant. Both described the scene of the mishap.

Following arguments by Attorneys Davis, Moloney and Hazen, Judge Young charged the jury which retired at 3:35 p. m.

The only major conflicting testimony in the case was that of Mrs. Elsworth Vorhees, whose home at 1157 East Church street was being painted by the plaintiff, and the defendant, Mrs. Vorhees testified that after she took the injured man into the house and called a physician, Miss Burke told her she had seen the ladder in the alley and that she thought she could back out without striking it. Miss Burke denied making the statements.

The question of trespassing on the Burke property by Orr was also given considerable attention by attorneys.

The jurors all signed the verdict as follows: Marjorie Jacoby of 443 South State street, Harry J. Barnhart of 503 Vernon Heights boulevard, Dale Lawrence of Marion R. D. No. 5, Mabel Gantt of Prospect, Walter R. Larson of 561 Mary street, Elmer W. Price of Marion R. D. No. 2, Martin V. Miller of 214 Bellevue avenue, Jud Lyon of Caledonia R. D. No. 1, Edgar Mack of 627 Cleveland avenue, William W. Beaver of Green Camp, H. C. Rogers of Caledonia R. D. No. 1 and Stella Gabler of Waldo.

Collecting It.

Announcement by the Internal revenue bureau of a drive to collect social security taxes gives insight to some of the difficulties of administering law in a country as large as the United States.

The Internal revenue bureau has an enormous task. Without extraordinary co-operation from taxpayers, it would be helpless. It already is aware of numerous delinquencies, some of them deliberate, many of them due to misunderstanding.

In a strict sense, there are no taxes for social security. Receipts collected under the social security act go into the general fund; there is no social security fund. But, though the treasury does not maintain a separate fund, it does keep a separate account of receipts and expenditures for social security.

For the first 11 months of the current fiscal year, which ends the last day of this month, it incurred a net deficit of $183,000,000 in this account, more than $100,000,000 in excess of its deficit estimate. This represents the delinquency which the Internal revenue bureau will not against. It represents, also, the first appearance of a delinquency which has been largely ignored, the problem of administering a highly complicated federal law with administrative machinery which was not noted for its efficiency even in the horse, and buggy days for which it was designed.

The task of bringing the government up to date, which has been monopolizing the attention of the Roosevelt administration, entails action in many directions, besides reform of the judicial branch.

You First.

Some times it's hard to decide whether Adolf Hitler is as dangerous as he seems to be, or more so.

Diarm, the German leader, advises other governments, and the reich will disarm, too. "Germany's millions want to work in peace," he continues. "They do not want to fight. But Germany will not suffer to be insulted or attacked. If some one thinks he may throw bombs on our ships, then we shall show him that we do not stand for such things."

Pretext that the United States were to disarm. It could disarm more easily than any other important country, because it never really has been armed. What would happen?

Any school child knows. The Japanese would shove off immediately, to invade this continent in droves. The Mexicans would surge up from the south, and the Canadians would descend from the north. All kinds of invaders, including the Scandinavian, would land on the Atlantic coast. The worst would happen without delay. Militarists are sure of it; they make their living that way.

It's why governments always insist that if any disarming is going to be done, the other fellow will have to do it first; the other fellow, of course, feels the same way about it. So, there's no disarming.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler knows how it works, so it may be assumed safely that he really intended to convey that all those thousands of nice German boys who get three squares and a bed a day don't need to worry about their jobs.

Street Fixing.

If all the knowledge of all the individuals and organizations studying traffic safety were to be applied to the problem of building a perfect highway system for a region, the result would be startling.

Students of the subject know, in other words, more than they ever have been able to put into practice. They will be many years before their ideas can be of any considerable help, due to the expense of remodeling highway systems.

Street fixing is not enough. Streets must be remodeled, not resurfaced. Something must be done to take parked cars off space needed for moving cars. Something must be done to enable drivers to make left hand turns without blocking traffic from the opposite direction.

Something must be done to separate local from express traffic. Something must be done to separate lines of traffic moving in opposite directions. Something must be done about pedestrians, about railroad tracks, about roadway margins which are obstructed and about different types of vehicles moving on the same surface.

These are details of the traffic problem. Each of them represents an item of cost which would have to be met if Americans were to take advantage of existing knowledge about highway safety. A few days ago, a traffic research engineer, Dr. Miller McClintock, said it would cost $57,000,000 to rebuild the American street and high-

Roosevelt And Morgan Agree

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1933, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, June 8.—It isn't often that President Roosevelt and J. P. Morgan agree on questions of public policy, but after examining the President's utterances and those of the veteran financier this week, one is forced to the conclusion that their minds are pretty well in agreement on the all-important point, namely, that a man is justified in complying with the letter of the law and avoiding taxes.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked by the press correspondents for his views on the matter of taxation by the rates of the salaries of federal officials, and he said he thought federal employees ought to pay such taxes, but that, because of the precedents of constitutional law, they didn't pay such taxes. Likewise, the President pointed out that he didn't believe in tax-exempt securities, but here, too, there would have to be a constitutional change in order to get rid of the exemption. What the President probably had in mind was that states and cities could not be compelled, except by constitutional amendment, to stop issuing securities exempt from federal taxation, but, of course, it doesn't require any constitutional amendment to cause federally issued securities heretofore to eliminate the tax exemption feature.

What the President contended, of course, is that, as long as there is no constitutional amendment forbidding the states to issue tax-exempt securities, the federal government feels compelled to avail itself of tax-exemption as a comparative inducement in the sale of its own bonds.

In other words, Mr. Roosevelt affirmed the principle that nobody is compelled to pay taxes that are not set forth in the laws of the land. This is the way J. P. Morgan expressed it in a newspaper interview: "Anybody's justified in doing anything as long as the law doesn't say it's wrong."

Now, if by chance this is an erroneous interpretation of the President's view, either as it relates to the payment of taxes on income from tax-exempt securities held by federal officials or as it relates to the payment of taxes to their home states by federal officials on their salaries, then the question really arises from a moral viewpoint.

Should a federal official, in view of the President's pronouncement that it is morally wrong to practice tax avoidance, pay taxes anyhow, even though he knows there's a loophole in constitutional law?

Every federal official and every person who holds tax-exempt securities must answer the query for himself. It so happens that there is in the treasury department a certain account known as "the conscience fund." Into it are paid annually thousands of dollars by persons who think they really owe the government something they previously didn't pay.

If President Roosevelt himself feels that federal officials should pay taxes to their state governments, even though they are protected by a loophole in constitutional law from the legal necessity of doing so, he can set an example by offering to pay to the state of New York a tax on his federal salary, or he can pay into the "conscience fund" of the treasury taxes on any tax-free bonds that happen to be a part of the estate from which he derives an income.

There is, however, little likelihood that any such move will be sponsored by the administration, because the truth is that almost everybody inside the new deal believes in tax avoidance just as much as does J. P. Morgan and the whole episode is just another example of the hypocrisy which is to be found in the constantly maintained atmosphere of politics in the national capital. Nearly everything heretofore is considered from the angle of politics. Government-by-headline is the rule rather than the exception and explains many of the presidential utterances that seek the front pages. Thus far, Mr. Roosevelt has proved himself an expert in winning headlines, especially in the interview and message intensifying the class warfare that has been precipitated by the use of the taxing power to redistribute wealth, a policy originally sponsored by the late Senator Huey Long of Louisiana.

New Farm Bill

By HUSTON GROVELL

WASHINGTON, June 8.—This man Wallace of agriculture, with the shy, cornfield grin, is fox.

He has been talking for a long time about his "Joseph Plumb" of crop insurance, to be coupled with crop control and soil conservation legislation in a new agricultural program. But his special baby, the crop insurance plan, is not to the liking of all farmers. They have felt he was perhaps slipping a fast one over on them by which they would be compelled ultimately to pay their own crop control bills instead of taking it from the treasury. Congress has known the farmers' position all along.

"Farmers' Bill."

But what was the surprise of congress recently to find the whole program boiled into one bill by the farmers themselves? The American Farm Bureau federation had put the thing together, the public was told, and the department of agriculture professed to have a hands-off attitude, although being willing to go along.

Wallace and H. H. Tolley, AAA administrator, kissed the thing off in the hands of the farmers and pointed to Edward A. O'Neil, Farm Bureau president, as the source of all information about it.

It was a neat trick, but there had been a slip. A day or so before a White House conference Farm Bureau leaders came to Washington and spent several hours listening to Wallace and Tolley explaining the contents of the legislative draft of the bill just then being put together.

But farmers talk loud and reporters waiting outside to get a report heard everything.

Wallace and Tolley did the explaining. The Farm Bureau men who later would take credit were doing all the listening. When the conference broke up, Wallace and Tolley shifted roles, and let the farmers do the talking.

First information is that the bill was drawn up by attorneys of the agricultural department and the Farm Bureau. Not all farmers like the bill. Party payments and commodity loans are in great favor. Penalty taxes and quotas set up to prevent the surplus growing too large under the Joseph plan are less popular.

way system and that the whole thing would pay for itself in 43 years. Here not in futile disputes about "whose fault it was," is the heart of America's traffic problem—the expense of making over a highway system designed for horses and buggies.

Glamor.

It will be a thrilling experience in years to come to look again at the most successful moving pictures of the past.

There would have to be included, of course, two or three Jean Harlow pictures. They were great money makers.

Something about Miss Harlow attracted favor to an extent not matched by any other moving picture actress of her time.

She was not a particularly good actress, though she improved greatly as she gained experience. The pictures in which she appeared added little to the tradition of the theater.

They did bring enjoyment to millions of human beings all over the world, though, and that was important. It's the reason why looking forward to a possible reshooting of some of the Harlow pictures is exciting.

For Miss Harlow, a symbol of vibrant life to her large and enthusiastic public, is unexpectedly dead. That is hard to believe.

It will be impossible for many, in future years, to understand how there could have been an actress with such extraordinary glamor. It has been impossible for those who never saw them to appreciate Earle, Bernard, Eleanor Duse, Jenny Lind and others, whose charm is now legendary.

The movies have changed that. Jean Harlow is immortalized in rolls of tiny photographs carefully preserved in a film library. When memory grows dim, grandfather and grandmother can take their skeptical grandchildren to the theater to see the Glamor Girl of the Throbbing Thirties.

That should convince the youngsters that the old folks probably had a little fun in their day, too; that ladies were beautiful to look at and that the urge to romance isn't a brand new discovery.

SPEEDY TRANSFORMATION.

Times do change—we can remember the time when mother bewailed the loss of "her little boy" when, after outgrowing knee pants for the past four or five years, he was finally taken down to the store and fitted out with his first long pants. It was an occasion for much weeping on the part of mother. But now the little shavers step out of three-cornered pants right into long ones.—Excelsior Springs Standard.

Hunting for Talent

By JOSEPH M. THOMSON

International News Service Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Big business firms have adopted the ivory hunting system of the major league baseball club. The latter's scouts are constantly combing the bush leagues, and low and college for likely looking young men who may have what it takes to become future stars of the national game.

In much the same manner great industrial and business concerns are eagerly seeking new talent in the graduating classes of the nation's colleges and universities. Commencement time is the favorite period for these campus excursions of the industrial scouts. In the 10 years or more since it began, this process of selecting employees has developed to a fine point.

Placement Advertisers Help.

Today many universities have placement services that select small groups of seniors particularly qualified for work in certain fields, and arrange conferences at which these students may be interviewed by personnel officers of the firms.

The University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia has such an organization for senior placement work. It is supervised and coordinated by the alumni industrial division and the alumni educational division. Dr. Clarence P. Clewell is director of the placement service. Closely cooperating with him in the program are the personnel officers of the university's various schools and departments.

These officials paint a rosy picture of the job situation for members of the class of 1937. From their contact with no seeking potential employees among the graduates the placement service has formed the following conclusions:

1—Employment opportunities for new graduates will be greater this year than at any other time since 1923. If the interest now being taken by employers in the seniors can be accepted as a criterion.

High Scholarship Sought.

2—A high scholarship record continues to be one of the best recommendations that a member of the graduating class can offer as an applicant for a job.

3—There is an increasing tendency on the part of employers to look with particular favor upon men who have had some measure of successful employment experience gained during their vacation periods or in part-time work.

4—Except in instances where certain types of positions are involved, an applicant's record in extra-curricular activities is considered of neither primary, nor even secondary importance, by employers.

5—More stress is being laid than ever before upon the degree of interest a student displays in specific branches of a firm's activities.

The interviews, as a rule, are conducted in the schools or departments concerned, where personnel officers of the university and faculty members are conveniently available to assist the visitors from business and industry.

Hot Spot Soon for Congress

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Every thing gets hot in Washington after June 1, and this does not mean only the weather. Humidity of legislation increases as the temperature rises.

It is an old political custom for the directors of affairs to hold back their warmest bills until the legislators become slightly groggy from the summer heat. Congress is less inclined to be meticulous when the thermometer is 100 in the shade. That is the time when lobbyists, official and private, set in their best work.

Thus, the session's best record for legislation has been established in the new Mansfield power bill, introduced a few days ago as an administration measure. The bill was written down by unknown authors who seem to know a thing or two about stoking a legal furnace in June. Among the feverish provisions they proposed in the bill are these two following propositions:

On the

No person can be appointed as director, administrator or member of the proposed new regional TVA's "unless he professes belief in the wisdom and feasibility" of this proposed law. In other words, officials of this new government agency will be required presumably to take an oath that they think the law is wise and workable.

Such a provision of law has never been thought of in any of the thousands of laws which have been passed, including prohibition. All other government officials of all other departments are required only to perform their duties and to uphold the Constitution, but the new regional planning agency must guarantee personally that the writers of the law were wise and efficient.

Suits

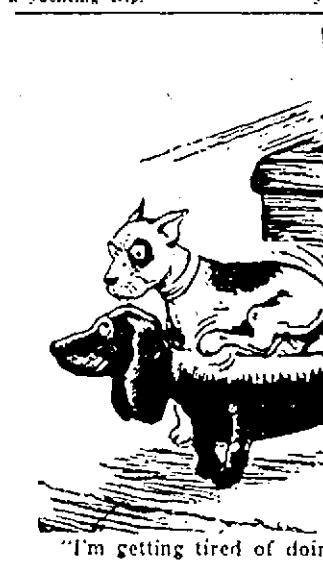

However, that is only a cool gust compared with the provision designed to prevent lawsuits such as those by which the TVA has been tied up. The unknown authors agree that no one can sue unless he furnishes bond to pay all damages, loss of time through delay, etc., which might be suffered by the government or anyone else under an injunction issued by the courts. And they say that these damages for all losses and expenses to the government must be paid if the plaintiff loses the suit.

In short, it means: No suits.

By legislative fiat, it is proposed to command allegiance to the law and to prevent suits against the law. This may have been proposed in connection with some other law in history, but the oldest legislative clerk cannot remember it.

Cool

Mr. R. is standing the weather much better than the legislators. Callers from congress found him last week working apparently old trousers and no coat. His shirt was tattered and open at the neck. He was dressed about the same as for a yachting trip.

"I'm getting tired of doing the greater part of your scratching!"

The White House cooling system was working at about 70 degrees, and so was he.

Four well dressed persons, using a broad "A" and identifying themselves as British bankers, have been around Washington within a week. They were not together and apparently were not officially calling upon government authorities. Outwardly they seemed to be merely vacationing in Washington at the particular moment of the latest cold scare in London.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau has been insisting daily that no coronation services for gold are contemplated by him, and most observers believe him.

The general presumption is that the visitors are working unofficially on gold co-operation methods between Washington and London.

Legislative Excursion

lobbies win friends and influence people was posted on the bulletin board in the house as an official announcement:

"The group sponsoring government ownership of Federal Reserve banks are (sic) making a boat trip June 6th. It is a good- will get together trip. Among the distinguished guests present will be Mr. Dale Carnegie, author of the best book seller, 'How To Win Friends and Influence People'; several United States senators; Col. Lawrence Westbrook of Texas and Washington; Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University; 25 commissioners of agriculture from 25 different states; and many others. More than 100 members of congress have arranged to make the trip. The boat will leave at 10:30 a. m. and return at 5:30 p. m. A few short talks will be made."

The announcement did not say who paid for the boat.

Train Catching Set To Music

BY C. O. MCINTYRE

There is merit in the suggestion by one of the paragraphers to bestow upon Amelia Earhart's husband, George Palmer Putnam, The Distinguished Medal For Self Effacement.

And there might be added to the list of Self-Effacing Husbands: Harrison Gray Fiske, Guthrie McChesney, Kate Kane Connel, Fanny Hurst's husband, Jacques Dancloux, Dr. Henry Smith, spouse of Helen Menken, Mrs. Harrison Williams' mate, Grace Moore's husband, and Doris Duke's. Then there is Bob Winans, the millionaire importer husband of the novelist, Katharine Brush.

There has been a specious theory that operatic stars or high grade singers of any sort should not marry. The records are against such alliances. Temperamental blasts that land one or the other wrecked in Reno are the usual result. A notable exception of the amount is Gladys Swarthout, and Frank Chapman, she of grand opera and he of the concert stage. They sing together and separately on a radio program and are said to be constant and agreeable companions away from professional work.

Pearl White, whose name so long packed the silent movies and who was the last of the American expatriates to leave France, turns over heads in the rounds of the night clubs but her celebrity is unknown to younger folk. She is one of the few earlier movie stars who wound up on the right side of the financial ledger and remained there. She made huge sums and invested them solely in U. S. and British government bonds. For nine years she was a lively figure in the life of Paris and the French Riviera.

Edgar Bergen has an affection for his ventriloquist's dummy, Charlie McCarthy, similar to that of a young girl for her favorite doll. If he gets on a short trip with no entertainment engagements to fill Charlie goes along. And he frequently amuses himself when alone talking things over with the dummy. When Bergen went to his new broadcast job in Hollywood lately he had great fun toting up Charlie for the trip. He had a belted camel's hair coat especially made, also a jaunty beret and Charlie was also adorned with one of those neck-handkerchiefs in the manner of clowns. Bergen also refuses to have his picture taken unless Charlie is included.

One of the late William Boyce Thompson's favorite stories concerned two workmen discussing a third underneath his library window. The third workman had stepped in front of a fast automobile and was instantly killed. At first there were lamentations over his demise and praise for his virtues. But after they had exhausted their panegyrics one of the workmen observed: "Of course I'm gone now but the low truth is was a blankety so and so." And 2 readily agreed and also declared: "He was a blankety blank so and so." And No. 1 in a sudden burst of fury exclaimed: "Indeed he was a blankety blank, blankety so and so"—then indulging in a pause added, "And not the best they."

Nazis' Wireles

Guarded

Underground Station Cables Europe's Most Powerful.

This is the second in a series of three articles on the extensive preparations now under way in Germany to obtain control of the air waves and the methods employed to propagandize Nazism in all quarters of the world.

BERLIN, June 8.—An intensive looking village 15 miles east of Berlin is the nerve-center of the world's most powerful radio net and can force every corner of the earth to accept Hitler's views by blotting out all competitors. Zossen, so small that few Berliners know of its existence, is missing on even large-scale maps. It is nevertheless an important place for those who are concerned with political and military matters of German nation that they have voted painstaking efforts to erect it against air attack or sabotage on the ground.

The cheery voice in any language heard throughout the world as "Hallo! dear friends" into the ether through the 12 radio transmitters hidden in the woods of Zossen, where an entire century's worth of business has been permitted to go on in secret, then only on production of a card authorizing you to do so.

Heavily Guarded Area

At the moment Zossen is another of those mushroom fields which have sprung up over Germany—there are 60 now. Berlin—since Hitler plunged a rearmament. But was to see planes which come near this in wartime. Or to loiter, that matter. Even now the wire enclosures, the 10-acre field with its tall-tale 25 radio towers. But for the most part, public is unaware of this secret weapon amidst the place.

Further to reinforce this way and to guard against all enemies, there is known to be in last stages of completion about miles from Berlin the world's most and most unique underground radio broadcasting station.

It cannot be bombed into silence.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, June 9, 1923. The plants of the Galton Men Grave Vault Co. and the Dixie Mfg. Co., in Galton were being fired.

Ray and Roy DeAutremont, year-old twins, were arrested. Steubenville, O., charged with holdup of a Southern Pacific road passenger train and the murder of four of the train crew. It was Saturday, June 8, 1913. One hundred men were killed in explosion and fire in a mine North Butte, Mont.

The Marion county board of education was worried over a stage of teacher applicants for county's 50 one-room schools. 12 applications had been received. County Superintendent W. Riegel reported. He said he finally was experienced in selecting teachers for the village centralized schools.

Harvey, 13-year-old son of Mr. & Mrs. Harlow Gillette, knocked unconscious by a lightning which struck near home at Waldo as he sat in kitchen talking to his father, was not seriously injured.

ENJOYS SOUND RESTFUL SLEEP

Thanks Vendol for quieting her quivery nerves by relieving constipation which had annoyed her for years.

"It is Grand To Get Such Sound, Restful Sleep After Being So Nervous and Restless and Vendol Gets All Credit," says MRS. ANNIE BUTLER.

I did not suspect that all my discomfort, loss of sleep and that tired, worn-out feeling were caused by constipation till I read where one lady suffering the same way had taken Vendol and was relieved, so I went to time getting Vendol and I relieved my constipation also. I now want to advise everyone to get this splendid medicine." says Mrs. Annie Butler of 310 S. Fourth St., Hamilton, Ohio.

How long have you been suffering from indigestion, your stomach, feeling up gas, and particles of undigested food. Is your tongue coated, breath offensive? do you have nights from quivery nerves, being unable to rest, causing you to drag around listlessly all day long? Who do you suffer all these aches, pains and inconveniences all because your bowels are constipated and fail to eliminate regularly?

Yes, of course you've tried medicine after medicine and gotten only slight benefits. But that is no reason you shouldn't take Vendol, the formula which has helped literally hundreds of thousands of men and women who once suffered the same way.

Vendol is made from roots, herbs and alkalines, a double-action remedy that gives gratifying relief from constipation and all of the annoying symptoms caused by it. Vendol is pleasant to take and quick to act and you will never regret it.

GERMAN WIRELESS WELL PROTECTED

Even its aerials are underground, a German engineering perfection made use of in its infant form during the last years of the World war. This station is said to be capable of drowning out any other in Europe.

This all-powerful radio weapon has been carefully guarded to get the highest efficiency and to assure a full quota of coverage for every country in the world.

Six Zones of Coverage. Screwed, dynamic little Dr. Goebbels, propaganda minister of the Nazis and Hitler's showmaster, has divided the world to suit himself and has laid out six zones of coverage: South Asia and Australasia; the Far East; Africa; South America; Central America; North America.

Each zone in turn has its own experts to deal in every respect with programs designed for countries therein. Reaction from every program is carefully studied and conclusions drawn.

Little downlight propaganda leaves Zeeser for the world's radio sets at present. Dr. Goebbels for the time being is chiefly interested in gaining foothold in other countries or getting foreign audiences to form a habit of listening in to German stations. So, with occasional doses of Hitler and occasional speeches, he sandwiches in propaganda sparingly between music, news and blithely greetings to far-off listeners.

Your Health BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Emphysema. Today I will tell you about "emphysema" and point out how frequently this condition may be confused with empyema, which I described recently. The terms are similar, but the disorders are entirely different.

I told you that empyema is the name given to an accumulation of pus in the chest cavity. Emphysema is a peculiar affliction in which the small air spaces of the lungs become unusually enlarged and greatly distended.

This ailment follows some chronic irritation or inflammation of the lungs. It is frequently seen in protracted cases of chronic asthma and bronchitis.

As a result of disease, the air sacs or cells lose their elasticity. They become like dead rubber. In consequence, it is impossible for the air sacs to expel all of the air, some of it being constantly retained. After a while this abnormal accumulation of stagnant air causes the weakened tissue of the lungs to stretch.

This weakness causes a lowering of resistance which encourages frequent and prolonged colds. The patient is the ready victim of bronchitis, influenza, bronchial pneumonia or even lobar pneumonia.

Emphysema is most commonly seen in elderly persons. This is not to be wondered at, because as we grow older the normal elasticity of all our structures is disturbed. The delicate tissues of the lungs are naturally among the first to notice the effect of age. It is more likely to be encountered in persons who are overweight.

Strange as it may seem, emphysema is not frequently seen in women. In those days when women wore corsets and tight garments, the authorities thought that fact was a factor of safety, at least as regards this particular condition. It is probable that a corset does help maintain the pressure to prevent stagnation of the air in the air sacs and the loss of elasticity.

As a matter of fact, sufferers from emphysema are advised to wear corsets or wide abdominal belts.

In addition to this simple measure, every effort must be taken to improve the general health and particularly to avoid all unnecessary strain on the heart and lungs. Over-exercising, excessive fatigue, lack of sleep and overweight must be avoided. Rest and relaxation are important.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland in care of this newspaper at its main office in this city.

Using charts to illustrate his comments, Mr. Schmidt showed how changes have been brought about in the relationship of land, people and machinery. Explaining that there can be no land problem except where there are people to populate and use the land, he told how the country's rapidly growing population has created new problems. As an illustration, he pointed out that in the pioneer days there were but a million people in the United States and Canada, while now there are 120 millions in the United States alone.

His charts showed the present movement of rural residents to the industrial urban centers, creating a situation resulting in new problems of management and distribution. Community management, he said, is certain to become one of the important developments.

In other No. 1 league contests, Forest Lawn walloped Salem, 6 to 1, at the President field and Trinity Baptist's entry romped to an 8 to 3 win over Epworth No. 1 on Marion Steam shovel diamond. Four members of the league will be in action again tonight when they face each other in contests which were postponed from May 18.

The Forest Lawn-Salem contest last night found Millner and Snyder as opposing moundmen, the latter on the hill for Forest Lawn. Both of the hurlers were pitching good ball, Millner allowing the winning Forest Lawn outfit seven hits, while Snyder set the Salem hitters down with but three safe blinks. Snyder turned in 13 strikeouts while Millner whiffed 12 opposing sluggers.

Hitting honors for Forest Lawn went to W. Harper, who slugged out a homer and triple in four times at the plate, while Winters collected the only other extra base hit, a double, for the victorious club. Uptman tripled, Riley doubled and Millner singled to account for Salem's three hits off Snyder.

The Trinity Baptists were off with the crack of the bat in the first inning of the game with Epworth No. 1 and shoved across six tallies in the initial frame. Epworth's club tried vainly to overcome the early lead, but was able to score only a single run in the fifth inning and a pair of late in the sixth. Strangely enough, the Epworth team led its opposition in hitting, clouting 10 scattered bingles, while the winning Trinity team accounted for but seven. Scores by innings of the games follow:

FIVE EVENTS OVER HALF-MILE TRACK PLANNED BY CLUB

Marion Contestants and Professionals From All Parts of State Expected To Enter.

Motorcycle enthusiasts from throughout the state are expected to visit this vicinity Sunday afternoon when the Triangle Motorcycle Club of Marion holds its first annual Tourist Trophy race of the season on a course one mile south of Waldo. Plans for the affair in which novice and expert drivers will compete for prizes are virtually complete. It was announced today by members of the club.

The program will include five racing events, two each for cycles with motors of 45 and 80-horse displacement and one for open competition. Glen Dean of 427 West Center street, manager of the Marion cycle store, has been named referee for the races and is lending his aid to officials of the club who are taking charge.

Harry "Sonny" Copeland of West Center street, president of the organization and rated as an expert driver, is taking charge with Glen Dollinger, treasurer of the club, and other members. The club is composed of 28 motorcycle riders from the city and vicinity and several of the members, in addition to President Bowman, are hoping to take part in the Sunday races.

The race will be over a half-mile course laid out near Fort Morrow, south of Waldo. Last year races were run over a similar but shorter course, but this year the track has been revamped and enlarged. In the shape of a figure eight, except that the track does not cross itself, the start and finish lines are located within a short distance of each other.

The trail itself traverses across country, over hills, through wooded sections, along a stream and directly through an abandoned gravel pit. Contestants are started with 15 and more light engines competing in the same heat of an event. The winner only is clocked and in the two closed divisions the drivers will be competing for cash prizes, while a trophy is offered the winner of the open contest.

At last year's successful race a crowd estimated at nearly 1,000 persons was present. Refreshment and rest stands are being erected on the grounds and will be ready for the Sunday program. Opening at 2:30 o'clock, the entire affair is expected to be completed in about two hours.

The races are expected to attract a host of drivers from all parts of the state, including several contestants who are well-known in motorcycle racing circles. Among those who are expected here is Kenneth Ingle of Dayton, last year's

GOLFERS WORK OUT FOR NATIONAL OPEN

Competition To Get Under Way Thursday Among 168 Top Flight Players.

By The Associated Press.
BIRMINGHAM, Mich., June 8—The star-studded field of 113 professionals and 25 amateurs had a "free ride" coming today over the 18-hole, hilly, hilly course at Oakdale Hills golf course—one last chance to find the answers to a host of questions the 7,000-yard layout will ask tomorrow as the 41st National Open championship gets under way.

"None welcomed another gratis tour of the United States' most youthful 'Slammin' Sam' Snear, from down in West Virginia's knobby, who has been installed as the No. 1 favorite, although it is his first crack at the country's most coveted crown. Close behind Snear in the betting were Henry Picard, Harry Cooper, Byron Nelson and Ralph Guldahl, 10 to 1, and Tommy Armour and Ky Luffoon, at 12 to 1.

Tony Manero, defending champion, who shattered all records with his 282 at Baltusorel last year, was on the books at 15 to 1, but Tony believes he is an "even choice against the field."

Gene Sarazen, who won the title in 1922 and 1932, was quoted at 16 to 1; Al Watrous, the host professional, and Johnny Goodman, the Omaha amateur who grabbed the crown in 1933, each at 25 to 1.

PITCHERS' BATTLE SET TODAY BETWEEN HUBBELL AND DEAN

Grissom's Four-Hit Pitching Helps Reds Win; Cleveland Loses to Red Sox, 10-8.

By BILL BONI

It's a press agent's dream, that double-header in the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals are scheduled to play today at Polo grounds. It's a return engagement of the pitchers' battle of the century—Carl Hubbell vs. J. Herman Dean.

If anything, the build-up has been even better than for the original. Hubbell no longer is trying to extend that fabulous winning streak, as he was back on May 19, when last they met in St. Louis. Hubbell walked off with a 4-1 decision that day and Dean lost the ball game, his temper and $50.

The $50 was the fine assessed by National League Presy Ford Frick for Dean's actions in projecting a minor riot. Jimmy Ripple, the Giants' outfielder, suffered similar punishment as the principal party of the second part.

On top of that riotous precedent, there also is Dean's dizzy stut with Frick, in which Dizzy stut to his "sign-nuthin'" principle, to lend glamour to this occasion.

To top it all off, there is the question of how long it will take Hubbell to resume his winning ways. The Dodgers broke his 24 game two-season streak on May 31 and belted him off the mound. Since then he's appeared twice, being knocked out once again by the Cubs, though he wasn't charged with a defeat, and doing a ninth-inning relief job to save a game for Hal Schumacher.

The Chicago White Sox have completed a climb from the cellar that began on May 8 and required exactly a month. The final step was their 5-4 trimming of the Yanks yesterday, accomplished despite Joe Dimaggio's ninth homer and fourth in four days and Lou Gehrig's eighth.

The Pirates, on Russ Bauer's sixth hit pitching, routed the Phils, 8-1. Lefty Leo Grissom, with a four-hitter for the Cincinnati Reds, blanked the Bees, 4-0, while, in the American league, Hank Greenberg's fifteenth homer and Elden Auker's one-hit hurling stopped the A's, 6-0, and the Red Sox put over eight runs in the ninth to edge out the Indians, 10-8.

The Browns and Senators were rained out.

The Stars Say— For Thursday, June 10

A PARTICULARLY lively and progressive day is forecast from the dominant planetary influences. Transactions with "big business," rings, secret organizations and political or diplomatic circles should thrive. Speculation is also likely to be fruitful, because the mind will be keen and vigorous. Change or travel are likely, but shun impulsiveness and irritability. Those whose birthday it is are assured a lively and progressive as well as prosperous year, with these matters especially lucrative that are advanced, by shrewdness, subtlety and sagacity. The judgment will be keen and tenacious, expansive, giving encouragement for speculation or bold business strokes. Dealings with banks, combines, diplomatic and political circles or secret societies could be profitable, but refrain from tumult and impulsiveness. A child born on this day may be shrewd, subtle and have a keen mind, thereby gaining by speculation or quick transactions. Many have an eventful career, with some novel highlights.
